11. Report on the programme:

An Outreach Program was organized under the DBT-Star College Scheme as a hands-on training initiative for our departmental students. The program was specifically tailored for honours students to provide fundamental knowledge and practical training in analysing various food adulterants and metallic colours in our daily foods. During the workshop, participants gained basic insights into food quality measurement advanced techniques. This program aimed to enhance their understanding of essential food quality testing through interactive and practical learning experiences.

12. Programme Outcome:

From this workshop, the participated students acquired hands-on training in using laboratory techniques and equipment for assessing artificial colours and adulterants in the foods. By providing an engaging and interactive learning environment, the program motivated students to pursue further studies or careers in food sciences. Moreover, the program helped students to understand the adulterated foods and how these can harm our human bodies. The foundational knowledge and skills acquired during the workshop served as a stepping stone for higher education and research in the food industries.
